THE FAIR.

Fine Display of Products and Much Interest Shown By Everybody.

The managers and others connected with the Lawrence County Fair have great reason to congratulate themselves upon the unqualified success of the exhibition presented last week. They had given weeks and months of unremitting care to the enterprise, and it required just such unflagging industry and good management to make the fair what it was — an unusually fine and comprehensive exhibit of what our farmers and stock men and good women could do. The display of farm and garden products, so far as superior quality is concerned, could not be surpassed anywhere; and the amount offered was much greater than that ever heretofore displayed. No finer butter and cream could be produced, and the display of embroidery, various garments of ladies' wear, quilts, etc., was very fine. The superior quality of the live stock exhibit was the subject of general comment. Horses, mules, colts, short horns, jerseys, Poland Chinas, Berkshires, sheep and goats — not very many of the latter, however — were shown, and they made a very attractive display. The gobbling of turkeys, the honking of geese, the quacking of ducks and the cackling of Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes noisily declared that Lawrence as a poultry county was rapidly taking place at the front.

The array of bread, pies of all makes, cakes of all kinds, jellies of every description was enough to make your mouth water, and sufficient to drive the judges to distraction.

The display of babies of both sexes and various degrees of beauty was bewildering.

Premiums had been offered for the prettiest baby, one of each sex, and three unwise youths were rash enough to accept the dangerous and difficult position of judge. They made the awards as speedily as possible and at once took to the woods.

A large number of lads and lassies under twelve years of age entered into a competition for a prize to be awarded to the best speller. The contest was hot and spirited and created much amusement.

A fiddler and a "beater" — Do you know what a "beater" is? — occupied the music stand in the yard, seemingly determined that the stand should be true to its name, and hour after hour the old-fashioned tunes, accentuated by the rhythmic strokes of the beater's sticks, were carried by the breeze to all parts of the beautiful square. Manager Yates went up the steps of the pavilion and pinned the blue badge of merit on the fiddler's breast, but it caused no break in time or tune.

Nothing occurred to mar the interest or the pleasure of the occasion. The attendance, notwithstanding the inclement weather, was very large on both days. And it was a splendid gathering of people, too. No finer looking, no better dressed, no better behaved crowd can be gotten together anywhere. Drunkenness and disorder were conspicuous by their absence.

There was very little, of any dissatisfaction concerning the awards. All seemed to realize the fact that somebody must fail to get the premiums in these contests. Judges were selected because of their presumed fitness and not for any partial feeling for any exhibitor. In a large majority of cases the judges were in utter ignorance of the ownership of the article shown and could not, therefore, give a decision regardless of merit.

As soon as possible a complete list of the awards will be made up and published in the NEWS, probably in next week's issue.

W. T. Kane, of Fallsburg, now make the offer for next year of a thoroughbred Poland China Gilt to the person in Lawrence or Wayne counties who displays the best sugar cured ham.

A wreck near Graves Shoals last Saturday night caused the Sunday morning train a delay of about two hours. Four or five freight cars and the train caboose were overturned and damaged, but no one was hurt.

Senator McCreary.

I notice in the NEWS some articles from voters favoring Gov. Beckham for U. S. Senator, and I want to say a few words on the other side.

If Kentuckians will fully weigh the matter I do not think they will turn Senator McCreary out of the U. S. Senate. It would be a very unwise act. He is one of the ablest men we ever had there. All his colleagues respect him. He takes a prominent part in all debates on the great questions of the day and is listened to with the greatest respect by that great body of men. He has served on international committees and is known beyond the confines of the United States.

He is conservative and safe. He is sober. Not only does he favor temperance, but practices it. He is a clean man in every respect. None of the temptations that come to a man in public life has ever caused him to step aside from the course of decency and right. Such a man is an honor to his State and should be kept in its service. Do not vote against this good man without first learning whether his opponent is just as sober, as clean, and as upright as he. If not, then as good citizens stand for the man who is a worthy example for your boys.

One more term in the Senate will probably be all that Senator McCreary will be willing to serve. There will be time enough then for Gov. Beckham to step into the place, if he prove himself worthy in the meantime.

I have nothing to say of the many charges against Gov. Beckham, some of which I have no doubt are true. I hope he is sincere in trying to enforce the Sunday closing laws in Louisville, but it is openly charged in the papers that he is doing it to secure the temperance vote and in proof of this it is urged that he might have done this sooner if he were a temperance man, having been in the Governor's chair six years.

Kentucky will make a grave mistake if she trades McCreary for Beckham. McCreary can command the full party strength. The bitter fight on the "machine" makes it essential to the party to retire Mr. Beckham for a spell. Else the people may retire him at polls a year later. We'd better do it ourselves than let the other fellows.

VOTER.

Another Railroad.

Incorporation articles have been filed in the department of Secretary of State and State Railroad Commission by the Kentucky North and South Railroad Company, of Kenton county, a corporation with $250,000 capital stock. The incorporators are T. J. Fitzpatrick, John C. Homer, R. J. Miller, Louis E. Miles, of Springfield, O.; Amos T. Noe, of Painesburg, Pa.; James P. Purdum, of Portsmouth, O., and Charles H. Hogen, of Dayton, O.

The company will construct a line in the States of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee. It is to be constructed from Fullerton, in the county of Greenup, to Bristol, Sullivan county, Tenn., and through the counties of Greenup, Carter, Elliott, Lawrence, Morgan, Johnson, Magoffin, Floyd, Knott and Letcher, in Kentucky, and the counties of Wise, Scott, Russell and Washington, in the State of Virginia, and the county of Sullivan, in the State of Tennessee. The length of the line as near as can be ascertained is 200 miles. The principal office or place of business of the company is to be located at Covington.

The Finch Club.

A press of less interesting matter prevented an earlier mention of the fact that the Finch Club is again holding its weekly sessions, and that the interest in the games and the menu is as great as ever. Two meetings have been held, one with Mrs. F. L. Stewart and one with Mrs. Aug Snyder. Both ladies fully maintained their reputation for good cheer, and the games were warmly contested.

The snowfall breaks the record in Louisa. The earliest fall of snow recorded by the Weather Bureau in this vicinity was on October 26, 1898. The average date for a killing frost in Louisa is October 20 and but once before was there frost earlier than that date, on September 24 about fifteen years ago.

GOV. BECKHAM

Spoke to a Large Audience at Louisa Last Friday.

This distinguished gentleman arrived in Louisa last Friday morning, having come for the purpose of addressing the people of Louisa upon the subject of his candidacy for United States Senator. He was met at the depot by a reception committee of citizens, not all of whom expect to vote for him at the primary on November 6, but who honor and respect the Chief Executive of the great Commonwealth of Kentucky. After breakfast and a short rest at his hotel Governor Beckham visited the County Fair, the first day of which had just begun so auspiciously. During the morning many citizens called upon him at the Brunswick. In the afternoon the people began early to fill the Court House, and by one o'clock it was packed full and running over. A few minutes after one Governor Beckham was introduced by Hon. J. Q. Lackey and was warmly received by an audience of which any speaker might have well been proud. He spoke almost exactly two hours, being frequently and heartily applauded.

Governor Beckham's speech was in many respects a remarkable one. He spoke for a few minutes in generalities, then a short time on national affairs and then settled down to a defense of his administration and the advocacy of his claim to the Senatorship. In defending his acts as Governor he necessarily had to pay his respects to Attorney General Hays. It was noticed that in so doing he studiously avoided mentioning the Attorney General's name, but his references were so plain and pointed that mentioning names was unnecessary.

All through the speech was a vein of irony and sarcasm which helped to make it well worth listening to. Governor Beckham is an attractive speaker. He has an air of frankness and sincerity which is very taking and which helps him out of some awkward situations. From his view point he made a strong speech and it doubtless made him friends.

While there is in the minds of many a question as to his availability and fitness as a candidate for the Senate the people have not forgotten that during the trying days of his early administration he acted fearlessly and with a soundness of discretion which commanded the admiration of every true Kentuckian.

Senator-elect T. H. Paynter was here meeting his many old friends. He and Mr. Lackey and E. E. Shannon took dinner with the Governor. (This report of the Governor's speech is intended to be impartial and to be accepted as neither an endorsement nor otherwise, for it is the rule of the NEWS to take no part in primary elections.)

A House Party.

Mrs. A. J. Crawford and daughter, Mrs. Richard Jack, are entertaining with a large house-party at their home in Central City. The guests are: Mrs. B. K. Price and Mrs. L. J. Frazier, of Catlettsburg; Mrs. A. H. Davidson, of Parkersburg; Miss Lillian Davidson, of Morgan, Min.; Mrs. R. L. Vinson, of Louisa; Mrs. Jeanette Davidson, of South Point, and Mrs. Werner, of Huntington. The ladies form a congenial party and are thoroughly enjoying the occasion, while their husbands and friends are anticipating the pleasure of a week-end visit, for which time extra preparations are being made. —Ashland Independent.

The Telephone.

The NEWS is informed that in about thirty days from date we may expect to be in connection with the rest of mankind by means of the Bell Telephone, local and long distance. The poles for city use are being erected, and when this work is done the wire will be strong, the switchboard put in and all made ready for business.

A telegram was received from Sam Freese Monday, telling of the sickness of his baby and asking that his mother and Dr. Watson come. Mrs. Freese left for Cannel City on the 9:30 train, and the doctor would have gone later, but another message was received saying the boy was better and Dr. Watson did not go.

State Development Convention.

The fifth annual meeting of the Kentucky State Development Convention met in Winchester Wednesday of last week and was in session until Friday evening. 400 delegates were present and a very interesting program was carried out.

Ex-Senator Wm. Lindsay came down from New York to preside over the convention. Several other very distinguished men were in attendance.

The work of these gatherings is beginning to bear good fruit. The advantages and needs of every county in the State are set forth and gathered together in proper printed form. The matter is given wide circulation throughout the world. Sections wanting immigrants of any particular class have their desires made known at the proper places. The resources of the State are given wide advertisement through this means. It is a great opportunity for Eastern Kentucky and the Winchester meeting put the delegates in touch with the wealth of this section. An excursion to Beattyville gave the delegates a view of some of the coal mines and large saw mills of the mountains.

Lawrence county was represented by Judge T. S. Thompson and the Louisa Business Men's Club by M. F. Conley.

Road and Bridge Commissioner

At the regular term of the Lawrence Fiscal Court John E. Queen was, by a large majority, elected to fill the important and responsible office of Supervisor of Roads and Bridges. On last Monday, it being regular County Court day, Mr. Queen offered his bond, which was accepted and he was sworn into office. Mr. Queen's bondsmen are Robert Dixon, Augustus Snyder, E. E. Shannon, William O'Daniel and Ben Vanhorn.

Competency, honesty, and correct judgment are prime essentials in the make up of a good road and bridge overseer, and in the person of John Queen the county has a man who possesses these qualifications in an eminent degree. He has had years of experience in the work of keeping our public highways in good order, his integrity as a man and public servant has never been questioned and his judgment in the matter of expenditure is excellent. The law declares in no uncertain terms that this yearly expenditure must not exceed the income for such purposes, and Mr. Queen will see that this law is observed and obeyed.

Big Coal Contract.

A big contract involving over two million dollars a year announced as having been entered into between the Big Sandy Company and the Cincinnati Gas, Coke, Coal and Mining Company, subsidiary of the Union Gas and Electric Company. President Charles Heller, of the Big Sandy Company, states that the Cincinnati concern has contracted to take the entire output of the ten mines controlled by his Company.

These mines are in Eastern Kentucky. They are Henry Clay, Pike, Marrow - Bone and the Edgewater Coal and Coke companies, each of which has two mines, one on upper Elkhorn and one on lower Elkhorn creeks. The contract is for a period of twelve years.

Fiscal Court.

The Lawrence Fiscal Court met Wednesday in adjourned session to complete the work of allowing claims and to receive the $9058 due from the bonding company that furnished security for Jesse H. Cordle. This money was received and appropriated to the payment of old claims, beginning the docket where the last allowances left off. The docket was cleaned up by allowing in addition to the above about $3,500 out of the road and bridge fund of 1907.

Public Speakings.

Hon. J. N. Kehoe, Candidate for Congress, will address the voters at the following times and places:

Webbville, Thursday, Oct. 25, 10:30 A. M.
Oliveville, Thursday, Oct. 25, 2 p. m.
Yatesville, Friday, Oct. 26, at 10 A. M.
Louisa, Friday, Oct. 26, 1 P. M.
Don't fail to hear this popular orator. He has some interesting things to tell you this year.

SAD ACCIDENT.

Child of Mr. and Mrs. Wat Kinner Burned to Death at Buchanan.

Bertha, the little 4 year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Wat Kinner, was burned to death Tuesday morning. The mother was doing the usual work about the house, leaving Bertha and a younger baby in the room, when she was attracted by the screams of the baby. She immediately ran to the house, and as she opened the door the child fell to the floor. All its clothing had been burned off and its little body burned almost to a crisp. The mother summoned aid at once and Dr. Warren arrived in a short time, but he could do nothing but alleviate the little one's suffering. It was an unusually bright child, much loved by every one, and its death comes as a heavy blow to its parents and friends. She bore her suffering with patience, talking cheerfully almost to the last. She had attempted to build a fire during the mother's absence and her sleeve caught fire while lighting the match. She lived about four hours.

Causes Men to Quit Work.

The following from Cincinnati has considerable local interest because of the fact that several Louisa mechanics have been at work on the locks spoken of:

The effect of the indictment returned recently by the Federal grand jury and which charges the Sheridan - Kirk Contract Company with working its men over eight hours a day on the new Government locks and dam in the Ohio river, at Fern bank, in violation of the eight-hour law, has assumed a serious condition. Over 200 of the company's men did not appear for duty to-day and the company is rendered practically helpless as a result. The men were paid only twenty cents an hour, but had been working ten to fourteen hours a day.

Arrested For Murder.

The people are familiar with the sensational case of Frederick Ketterer, of Ashland, who died several weeks ago at the Eastern Kentucky Asylum, in Lexington.

His body, when shipped to Ashland for burial showed divers cuts, bruises, and an investigation followed. Ex-Attendant Wallace made public charges to the effect that Ketterer had been murdered.

All the evidence was presented to the Fayette county grand jury Tuesday, and, as a result, an indictment was returned charging Fred Pharris, an attendant at the Asylum, with Ketterer's murder.

Pharris was at once arrested and placed in jail, to await his trial at the present term of Circuit Court.

Stricken By Paralysis.

The friends of Mrs. Helen T. Headley, of Morristown, N. J., will be sorry to learn that she has quite recently suffered a severe cerebral hemorrhage, the result being complete paralysis of the left side. The attending physicians do not make any prognosis, preferring to await the lapse of three or four weeks. Mrs. Headley's age and a chronic ailment militate against her complete recovery.

Mrs. Headley is a woman of remarkable mental acquirements and ability, being possessed of a naturally fine mind which much study and reading have greatly improved.

A Louisian Again Honored.

Dr. W. B. McClure, formerly of Louisa, but now a prominent specialist in Lexington, was made treasurer of the Kentucky State Medical Society at its recent annual meeting in Owensboro. Dr. McClure is President of the Kentucky Midland Medical Society which met at Versailles this week, and will respond to the address of welcome at the meeting of the Kentucky Valley Medical Association at its meeting in Campton next Thursday.

Mrs. C. J. Carey is assisting Circuit Clerk Shannon in his office. Mrs. Shannon's health does not improve and this keeps Mr. Shannon from his place of business so much that the services of a deputy are required.

The Hog.

Plain, homely sort of subject isn't it, but a look at some magnificent specimens of the American hog exhibited at our late fair evokes a plain, homely sort of essay. The hog is a wonderful animal in several respects. We know a newspaper man once who was called the great American Condenser, because he could pack so much news into such a small space. But he was nothing to the great American hog. Give him ten bushels of corn, and he'll put it into less space than a waterbucket. And no part of him is lost. Hide, bristles, hoofs, bones, and "innards" are utilized, and it is reported that an ingenious fellow down East has succeeded in turning the curl of its tail into teething rings and making penny whistles of its squeal. "Raise more hogs and less 'h—ll." This advice of poor Sam Jones is mighty good advice for all to follow. It will worry the distillers, but think of the hams and happiness, the bacon and blessings and the sausages and satisfaction that will be ours.

PERT PARAGRAPHS

Picked Up At Pike, Paint and Prestonsburg.

Alexander vs. Gardner, Magoffin, affirmed.

Doc Vinson was here Monday and purchased a camp outfit for his Martin county timber job.

Adams Express Co., vs. Commonwealth, Pike, affirmed.

Cox vs. Burgess, Pike, affirmed.

Jas. Francis, who shot Pat Cesco on Sunday last, was brought to jail in Pikeville yesterday.

Word came to Pikeville Monday announcing the death, Saturday night, of Mrs. A. W. Campbell, of Phelps, Pike county. Mrs. Campbell is the wife of one of Pike county's most prominent citizens. She had had a siege of typhoid fever.

Boone Barnett was given a life sentence in Magoffin Circuit Court, for the murder of Burns Patrick on December 26 last. The jury was out two hours. Press Dyer is now on trial on the charge of murdering Cleveland Arnett in April last.

While playing with tools and supplies at the town rock quarry, Sunday, Frank Dills, aged twelve, and Bee Conley, aged eleven, were dangerously, if not fatally, injured by the explosion of two kegs of powder. It is said the boys tried to ignite a handful of powder and fire reached the whole supply, causing a terrific explosion.

At Pikeville last week Bud Daniels was given five years in the pen for the murder of David Dalton. The sentence is considered a very light one, as many predicted that he would either be hanged or get a life sentence, as the murder was a most cold-blooded one.

The grand jury was dismissed after having been in session 11 days. They made 172 indictments, being 200 less than at the last term of court.

In the case of Flemming brothers, Sheriff and Jailor of Dickinson county, Va., who undertook to batter up the crew of the up-river passenger train the other day, they were kept in jail here over night and the next forenoon were indicted and tried in the Circuit Court and were fined $20 and costs each, which amounted to $28 each; and were sent on their way sadder, but perhaps, wiser men.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

Blaine, Ky., Oct. 17.—G. W. Kouns, a prominent merchant of this place, drank carbolic acid last night, mistaking it for cough medicine. Realizing immediately, his serious mistake, he ran for Drs. H. H. and J. J. Gambill's office, where antidotes for the deadly poison were administered which enabled him to return to his home, after two or three hours treatment, but his mouth and throat are badly seared. This came very near costing George his life and should be a warning to others to be more careful how they use these small vials. C.

The Democratic Committee of Trimble county has announced that no money or whisky will be allowed used in the primary on November 6 in that county, and that it will not certify the returns for any candidate who uses illegitimate means to win.

Charles E. Magoon Saturday assumed the Governorship of Cuba, succeeding Secretary of War Taft. Governor Magoon issued a proclamation declaring that the policy announced by Secretary Taft would be strictly adhered to and carried out. Secretary Taft and Mrs. Taft and Assistant Secretary of State Bacon and Mrs. Bacon sailed for the United States Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock on board the battleship Louisiana. Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston sailed at the same hour for the United States on board the battleship Virginia.

Chaiburn Mintooh, a farmer of Cooke county, Tenn., murdered his wife and four children, fatally wounded two other children and then committed suicide by cutting his throat. It is believed Mintooh became suddenly insane, as there is no other known motive for his acts.

Certificates of nomination in the congressional races in the various districts are being prepared by H. V. McChesney, Secretary of State, and will be sent out to the County Clerks within a few days. The Republicans have candidates in all districts except the First, and the Prohibitionists have candidates in all except the Ninth district.

The Kentucky State Medical Society went on record as opposed to any reduction in the standard of insurance medical examiners and fixed the minimum fee at $5 for each examination. The big insurance companies were scored for an effort to procure cheap men for this purpose.

In the presence of sixty pupils of the South Euclid school in Cleveland Harry Smith shot and killed Miss Mary Shepherd, a teacher, who had refused to marry him. When about to be arrested at his home, two hours later, Smith shot himself through the head, dying instantly.

Houston, Mo., Oct. 14.—Barney Parsons, a farmer, his wife and three children were murdered Friday near Licking, Mo. Jolia Hamilton, a farmer, has been arrested, charged with the murder, and is said to have confessed. Parsons had sold his farm and crops to Hamilton and it is alleged that the man quarreled over the terms of the sale. Parsons and family set out from their former home in a covered wagon bound for Northern Missouri. The body of Parsons was found shot to death and the mother and three children had been clubbed to death.

Kentucky Presbyterians are to have a great Women's College. This was finally decided by the two synods of the State, the Northern Synod meeting in Louisville and the Southern Synod in Henderson. Each voted $40,000 to assist in starting the project, which contemplates the use of Caldwell College at Danville and the erection of additional buildings on twelve acres of ground adjacent to the college owned by James Shuttleworth, of Louisville.

The Northern Presbyterian have already raised $15,000 of the necessary $30,000 as have the Southern Presbyterians. A committee of six was appointed by the Northern Presbyterians to raise the additional $25,000 by April 1 of next year.

Winchester, Ky., Oct. 12.—With the adoption of a resolution in the State Development Convention at the morning session to-day, the Kentucky State Development Association, with headquarters at Louisville came into being. It is created as a permanent organization, and the main office will be established permanently in Louisville. It is the belief of the delegates that a permanent association, with a definite organization, will be of greater advantage to the State and will make possible more systematic development.

Louisville was chosen because of its central location, as well as because it is the metropolis of the State. Much enthusiasm was shown in this feature of the convention's work, and it is provided that the permanent headquarters shall be established at once.

The new association is to be maintained by membership fees and by appropriations from the various fiscal courts, under a plan which will be presented to the county judges and magistrates of the State. It is set forth that each county, in which the assessed valuation is less than $10,000,000, an appropriation of one cent on every thousand dollars shall be asked; in counties where the assessed valuation is between $10,000,000 and $75,000,000, the appropriation is to be one-half a cent on every thousand dollars, and in counties where the valuation is $75,000,000, or over, the appropriation is to be one-fourth of a cent on every thousand dollars.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Oct. 11.—News has been received here of a race for life between a train carrying Andrew Fesler and appendicitis, which had fastened its death hold upon him. Fesler won, but had a close call. He was suddenly stricken with appendicitis at Ely, Nevada, and physicians hastily summoned, said an operation must be made immediately or death would ensue. A special train was gotten and the race for life was started to a hospital in Salt Lake City, Utah, eleven hundred miles away. The operation was performed just in the nick of time and Fesler's life was saved. He was born and reared in this city, and is well known in Central Kentucky. Young Fesler gained a unique distinction by going to the fields at Gold Fields, Nevada, and starting on a five-dollar bill and making a fortune of $100,000.

An advance statement given out at Washington by Postmaster General Cortelyou shows that the Post-office Department's deficit for the fiscal year ended June 30, last, was over $4,000,000, or 27.83 per cent. less than in the preceding year. Total receipts made the greatest increase for any year in the history of the service.

..... The nearer the election approaches the more confident Mott Ayres, Secretary of the Democratic Primary Election Committee, that that the election will pass off without a hitch and that a poll will be opened in every precinct in the State for Democratic voters to cast their ballots for their preferences among the candidates. It will take over 8,000 officers to conduct the primary, and Secretary Ayres has received information that over 4,000 of this number have been secured by the Democratic chairman in the various counties. Nearly every mail brings letters noting the appointment of election officers and their acceptances. Secretary Ayres thinks by the last of the week applications will be in for officers to serve in every precinct in the State. The subcommittee of the Democratic State Executive Committee, which was given control of the primary, will have to meet at least fifteen days before the primary and certify to the election officers who will hold the election, in accordance with the general election law of the State. This committee will either meet next Monday or Tuesday at the headquarters and certify to the appointment of the long list of officers.

A prominent citizen of the tenth congressional district writes as follows of the situation there:

"The Tenth congressional district is about normally 2,000 Democratic. It is the general opinion of those who are well posted that Congressman Hopkins will carry the district this year by at least 3,000 majority. I am confident that a full vote will be polled in the Democratic primary. The congressional election this fall will add considerably in bringing out the Democratic vote. While the Democrats over the district have their preferences in the primary, I do not think there has been the least bitter feeling among our people during the campaign. I don't think there will be any hard feeling after the election is over. We are for the nominees, whoever they may be."

Paris, Ky., Oct. 13.—The tenth annual conference of the Kentucky Daughters of the American Revolution closed here after an interesting session. Mrs. Jas. Arnold, of Newport, gave an interesting talk on "Patriotic Education." At the close of the address it was unanimously agreed to establish an educational fund, for use in the Eastern part of the State. Mrs. D. B. Sperry, of Louisville, presented a message from the Daughters of 1812.

The annual report of the State treasurer was read by Mrs. Wilson H. Escott, of Shelbyville. Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy, of Louisville, vice president general, delivered an interesting address on national affairs. The following officers were elected for 1907: Mrs. C. D. Chenault, Richmond, State Regent; Mrs. Wilson H. Escott, Shelbyville, State Treasurer; Miss Margaret D. Butler, Paris, Secretary.

Louisville was selected as the next meeting place. The conference adjourned after passing a vote of thanks to the ladies of the Paris Chapter.

Hyden, Ky., Oct. 14.—Fifty Republican and five Democratic, all the voters in Hyden, will lose their right to cast their ballots at the election on November 6, because all forgot that they were required to register on the first Tuesday in October. The Democrats will gain forty-five votes in this county by the oversight and the Republicans are discussing the question: "Is it worth while to lose fifty votes in order to keep the Democrats out of five?"

Under the new act of the General Assembly, voters in towns of the sixth class must register on the first Tuesday in October, and all who fail so to do, lose their right to vote. On the appointed day here, nobody thought of registration and the polls were not open for the voters. Nothing was thought of it until a week later when someone discovered that registration had not been held and that therefore, the town will not be able to cast any votes in the Congressional election. Supplemental registration will not help the disfranchised voters, as they have no excuse for failing to register on the regular day set. It is said that in several of the smaller mountain towns where registration has not been held before, no registration books were opened and the voters have lost their right to vote.

The Democrats, who lost their vote by failing to register, will also lose their right to vote in the primary, as under the rules they are required to have cast a vote in the Congressional race before they may vote in the primary.

CONSUMPTIVES MADE COMFORTABLE.

Incipient consumption is cured by Foley's Honey and Tar, but we do not hold out false hopes to consumptives by claiming that it will cure this dread disease in the advanced stages; but if the lungs are not too far gone Foley's Honey and Tar will effect a cure, as it stops the racking cough and soothes the inflamed air passages giving them a chance to heal, and even in the advanced stages it always gives comfort and relief. A. A. Herren, of Finch, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." "Hikeing, Daily Hikeing."

A "Soldier Boy," a Kentuckian, out at Fort Riley, sends us some lines of which we have room for only three verses. The boys have evidently been drilling some: We are hikeing, daily hikeing, O'er the hills near Pawnee flats, Doing stunts they call maneuvers, And on pay day drinking Blatz. But we hate to get up early In the morning for to drill, For they make us hike the dusty roads, And climb some rocky hills. Oh, I like to sit and listen, To the soldiers as they tell Of the mighty loads they carried, On a hike that sure was H'll

Let Us "Make Up" Also.

Dr. George Ashley, who addressed the late State Development Convention at Winchester said in a speech before that body:

"Pennsylvania prosperity is due to the fact that in a large measure she 'makes up' her raw material into forms commanding the highest market value. She sells most of her coal as steel rails, bricks, steamships, etc. Again she makes the possession of one kind of raw material the source of enormous secondary profits. In 1904 Pennsylvania mined about 300,000 tons of iron, yet one county in that State the same year produced over four million tons of pig iron and over five million tons of steel. That is making a little go a long ways. Pennsylvania has the coal. She buys iron ore from the other fellow, makes it up into steel rails, and sells it back to that other fellow at a price that says double for the coal. You are doing the same thing at Ashland. Drive out the new Hood creek pike to the limits of Boyd county if you don't think it pays, or figure up the mileage of brick pavements recently put down in that town. Only think what would happen if four-fifths of Kentucky's coal was being used in Kentucky to make finished products, Johnstown, Pa., illustrates the point. She is surrounded by coal. One of her coal mines, as a mine-employer several hundred persons. As fuel for the Cambria Iron Company, it brings to Johnstown a company employing 16,000 persons. The lesson is one you all appreciate, and need no urging on my part to make use of.

One word more, this time land title. In Pennsylvania the buying of coal lands is a simple operation. It may cost money. Only last week a farm near Greensburg brought $1,000 an acre because of the coal under it. But from what I have seen in Kentucky, the buying of coal land here, especially in the hillier portion of the State where most of the coal occurs, all too frequently involves the rebuying of the same land several times from as many different parties all of whom can produce seemingly good titles, or else tying the land up in the courts for years. I know personally of thousands, I might say hundreds of thousands of acres of fine coal lands that have been up for years from that cause. You probably know of many more. I am not going to suggest any remedy, as I am not versed in such matters. But Massachusetts, with her Torrens land law, and possibly other States have successfully undertaken the simplification of the procedure of land transfer, and I believe if the lawyers of this State would take hold of the problem that a great forward step could be made in the utilization of the State's undeveloped resources and that it would greatly hasten the day when Kentucky would be famous not alone for her blue skies and beautiful scenery, her fair women and gallant men, but as a rich and powerful commercial and industrial Commonwealth and a true industrial rival of Pennsylvania or any other State.

Make a note now to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with nasal catarrh, hay fever or cold in the head. It is purifying and soothing to the sensitive membranes that line the air-passages. It is made to cure the disease, not to fool the patient by a short, deceptive relief. There is no cocaine nor mercury in it. Do not be talked into taking a substitute for Ely's Cream Balm. All druggists sell it. Price 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Steel Barges for Ohio River Coal.

A new and most promising use for steel is the construction of steel barges for the shipment of coal on the Ohio and down the Mississippi river. A number of barges are now being built at Pittsburgh by large coal operators with a view to carrying coal down the Mississippi and to Havana and other West Indian ports without breaking cargo. It is estimated that there are about 11,000 coal barges on the rivers, and with the start made for the substitution of steel for these wooden barges it is believed that there will be a very rapid change, and that there will soon be an enormous fleet of steel barges handling coal on the Ohio river and its tributaries for shipment to Europe, to the West Indies and to Central America. This not only means a great demand for steel for an entirely new use, but it means an entirely new development in the river coal trade of very far-reaching importance.

LUMBER WANTED.

We are in the market for Oak, Poplar, Ash and Sugar Tree Lumber. The Ohio Valley Furniture Co., Manchester, Ohio.

To All Democratic Voters.

If there ever was a time in the history of the Democratic party for the manifestation of loyalty and patriotism on the part of its members, it is right now.

If we are to win a victory and elect a President two years hence, we must first elect a House of Representatives this fall. A Democratic House can and will investigate every department of the Government. With all of them honeycombed by "graft," the edges of which only have been touched by recent exposure and prosecutions, there will be a revelation of rottenness that will astound the country, and create a demand for a Democratic administration to clean the Government workshop.

To win the House we need money to defray legitimate expenses and to defray legitimate expenses and get out our vote. We have no protected monopolies from which to draw to fill our coffers, as they do those of the Republican party. We must, therefore, appeal to loyal Democrats for contributions.

Will you send us $1.00 at once, and in return for this we will send you copies of our campaign literature issued by the Committee. You will have the thanks of the entire Democratic party for your favorable response to our request.

Our Big Clubbing Offer.

By special arrangement with the Southern Agriculturist, the popular semi-monthly farm paper of Nashville, Tenn., we are able to give our readers the advantage of a clubbing offer which we believe is the most liberal ever made by any newspaper in the South.

The Southern Agriculturist, a great semi-monthly farm paper goes twice every month into 50,000 southern homes, and the regular price is 50 cents a year. It is edited by southern men and women to suit southern conditions, and is just what our farmers need. It answers free of charge any question a subscriber may ask and its advice is given in a plain practical way which any farmer can understand. All departments of farm life are covered, including delightful home and children pages.

HERE IS OUR BIG ALL-SOUTHERN BARGAIN

Regular Price.
Big Sandy News.....$1.00
Southern Agriculturist......50
Nashville Weekly American.....50
Industrious Hen (poultry).....50
Southern Fruit Grower......50

Total regular price.....$3.00

We will send you all five of the above papers a whole year for only $1.50.

These papers are all southern publications and each is a leader in its particular field. Order this club and you will get a big year's reading at nominal cost.

BIG SANDY NEWS.

WANTED: School, having new, attractive proposition, wishes energetic man or woman to visit towns in Kentucky. Good salary and expenses paid weekly. Some knowledge of music preferred, but not essential. J. H. MOORE, Plymouth Place, Chicago, Ill.

If you need a watch chain get it at Conley's. New line just in.

Job Printing

Some of you are paying more for your job printing than the Big Sandy News office charges, and getting a poorer class of work and a cheaper grade of stock. It is worth your while to investigate.

RUBBER STAMPS

Rubber stamps are a great convenience for certain purposes. They are not suitable for printing your letter heads and envelopes. Neatly printed stationery looks business-like and is cheaper, all things considered, than buying blank stock and stamping it yourself.

However, we furnish rubber stamps at 10 cents for a single line 3 inches or less in length. 25 cents for 3 lines 3 inches or less.

WEBBVILLE, OCT. 12.

I regret that sickness of my family keep me from being at your town to hear Gov. Beckham's speech, for I would rather hear him than any man in Kentucky, for I know that he is the best Governor ever Kentucky had, and I know and you know that if we had had any other man as Governor when he took it that the State would have run with blood of each other, but he being cool and smart brought us out without bloodshed and without confusion, and since has made such Governor as he has no equal North, South, East or West, and has brought the State out of debt. When he went in as Governor the State was largely in debt and almost bankrupt, and I think and ask the voters of Lawrence to vote for him and support him for U. S. Senator for if he has took our State in the condition it was when he went into the office as Governor and brought us out in the condition he has we can trust him and should show him that we appreciate his action.

I am in the largest Democratic precinct in the county and outside of the dead politicians and office seekers and whisky men and men that has to have money everybody else is for Beckham. But you know as well as I know that in my county there is always a lot of cast-off politicians and a lot of men that has to have some office or some money or they are against the men that do the poor or laboring class the best good.

Now the voters of Lawrence county. Both Democrats and others. You know that I don't want any office, would not have it as a gift. You all know what is my interest is your interest. You all know that you never asked me for any advice I did not give you the best I knew. You never asked me to tend to any case in court for you or your boy. I did not do it without fee or reward. Now I ask you for the good of Kentucky for the good of your wife and children and for the good of the State go to the election and vote for the primary and vote for J. C. W. Beckham for U. S. Senator. Uncle Tip Moore.

Order of Arrangement on Ballots

ON THE PRIMARY BALLOT.

For Governor—
N. B. Hays,
S. W. Hager,
For Attorney General—
J. K. Hendrick,
Lillard H. Carter,
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—
E. A. Gullion,
M. O. Winfrey,
For Commissioner of Agriculture—
R. C. Crenshaw,
J. W. Newman,
For Lieutenant Governor—
South Trimble,
For Secretary of State—
Albert Vreeland,
For Auditor—
Henry M. Bosworth,
For Treasurer—
Rudy Laffoon,
For Clerk Court of Appeals.
John B. Olenault.
For United States Senator—
J. C. W. Beckham,
James B. McCreary.

N. B. Hays' name will be placed first on the ballots in the Democratic primary to be held on November 6 and Senator McCreary's name will be placed last. The other names will be between, with the contested offices coming first and the uncontested offices next. This arrangement was decided upon by the subcommittee of the Democratic Executive Committee at a meeting held at the Seelbach for the purpose of completing the arrangements for the primary.

Little Virginia Hays, of Donerall, Fayette county, daughter of T. P. Hays, the horseman, drew the names of the candidates from a hat and decided which name should precede in each of the races where there is a contest. The little girl, looking perfectly composed, although surrounded by a roomful of strange men, all of whom watching her, stood on a table and drew the slip of paper on which the names of the candidates had been written. She did not understand what it was all about, but seemed to get some fun out of the arrangement.

Bordaux Sauce.

Bordeaux Sauce — Four quarts of sliced or shopped green tomatoes, eight quarts of chopped cabbage one dozen onions, four quarts of strong vinegar, two pounds of brown sugar one-fourth pint of salt, half pound of white mustard seeds, one ounce each of tumeric, celery seed, allspice (whole), cloves, ginger and black pepper. Mix and boil all together for twenty minutes, then bottle and seal. If one has a small meat grinder, the vegetables should all be ground together.

Bordeaux Sauce, No. 2. — Two quarts of green tomatoes sliced or chopped fine; four quarts of cabbage, same; eight onions, two green peppers, one and one-half tablespoonful of tumeric, same of white mustard seeds, tablespoonful of whole allspice, two spoonfuls calery seeds, two cupfuls of best brown sugar, four tablespoonfuls salt, and one quart of vinegar. Boil all together for half an hour, then put into glass jars and seal; or put into wide-mouth bottles, cork, and dip the cork into sealing wax. The vegetables should be run through a shopper, or chopped fine in a bowl. —Gracie M.

Home Circle Column.

A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle.

A great many more young men and women are sent upon the road to ruin by money than by poverty. As a rule the devil wants no better chance at boys and girls than to have their pockets filled with cash and then set down at some fashionable resort. Rest is all right; revelry is all wrong.

You ask why the world isn't better, why there is not more charity and love extant than we find therein? The reason is plain. There are too many in the world who will not cast their bread upon the waters unless they are assured beforehand that it will come back in a few days a full grown sandwich all trimmed with ham, butter and mustard.

My dear readers, is it not true, we too seldom speak of our heart's gladness, but dwell on its misery? Keep account of the people you meet and see how little they say that is pleasant and happy and much that is dreary and sad. They will tell of bodily aches, pains and infirmities. They will complain bitterly of the heat of it is warm, or of the chill if it is cold. They will speak of the discouragement in their business the hardships in their occupation, the troubles in their various duties, and all the manifold miseries, real or imagined, that have fallen to their lot. But they will have little to say of their prosperity, their health, their three good meals a day, their encouragements, favors, friendships and manifold blessings. Let us learn the lesson not to empty our tale of woe into other people's ears, but dwell more on the pleasant things of life.

Husbands, like peaches, will not keep the year round unless they are well preserved. First, select one carefully. Be sure he is not too green, neither should he be overripe. He might look very tempting and mellow in the market, but if he is too old he will not stand the test of the preserving process, but will expose his hard stony heart. Husbands grown in the tropics of pleasure look very fine, but are usually insipid. The home grown are best. Select your husband, if possible, from a family tree growing on the sunny side of a church. You will be sure then that he is sound at heart. Sound husbands, like unsound peaches, often have to be sorrowfully cast away. Having selected your husband you should have a clear, steady, cheery fire of love. Your preserving kettle should be neat and clean. Husbands, like peaches, look very black if this is unclear. Give him plenty of sweetness. Much sugar is needed. Vinegar is never used in sweet preserves. If you think he needs a little spice, use it with caution. Do not keep stirring him up, neither should you keep poking him with sharp points to see if he is done; it will spoil his looks. If the above receipt is followed, and you have seen you will find his love well preserved.

Small boys often conceive the false idea that it is manly to chew tobacco, smoke and swear. Older boys and young men are prone to conclude that moral integrity and religious purity are elements of weakness whilst immorality and infidelity are evidences of strength. No greater fallacies ever entered the human mind. Which is stronger, the boy or young man who resists temptation and does right, or the one who yields and does wrong? The one who resists the inclination to indulge in strong drink and lives a sober, useful life, or the one who panders to appetite and becomes a miserable drunkard? Which is the stronger, the one who honors his Maker by keeping himself pure in thought and word and deed, or he who dishonors God by defiling himself in mind and speech and conduct? Who does not know that it requires strength of purpose, of willpower, of mind, to say to the tempter, "begone!" and to resist the devil till he flees away? Who does not know that his evil deeds are the results of his moral cowardice?

Toll is healthful. Even excessive labor can be long endured. But worry is a corrosive that speedily eats out the nerves and tissues of life. He who frets about his work burns his life's candle at both ends. It is the friction rather than the revolution of the wheels that wears the machinery. He who knows how to do his level best and leave the result with God, has learned one of the chief secrets of life. But he who is always worrying about how things are coming out is most foolish. Some people constantly complain and protest. They imagine that their lot is so much harder than that of their neighbor. They are always regretting that they did not do things some other way. Such persons will have nerves set on edge, will have chronic indigestion, a gloomy disposition and a diseased brain. Sunshine and health are close friends. Do the best you can and stew not. Work hard. Work very hard. There is much to do. There is much that no one can do as well as you. But do not bear two burdens, both work and worry. All the fretting in the world will not change matters. It will only render you unhappy and unfit you for the largest service. Mix all your burden-bearing with smiles and songs.

Democratic Ticket.

For Congress
HON. JAMES N. KEHOE, of Mason County.

Stockholders of the Norfolk and Western railroad at the annual meeting in Roanoke, Va., authorized the issue of $34,000,000 of additional stock.

Senator Tillman said to an audience of his neighbors down in South Carolina, that he was going up north for a while and tell some of his political enemies what he thought of them and make them pay him a good round sum for giving them the chance to listen to him. Well, he went and talked to them for 100 nights at $250 a night. Reports say that the people were so well pleased with him, that they want him to come again on the same terms.

The Cuban situation has delayed for a time the Government's active prosecution of the Standard Oil Company. The wheels of justice are in motion again, however, and the people are anxiously waiting to see whether the Standard Oil Company will be entangled and ground up by its machinery, or will bob up serenely after having passed through the mill, none the worse for wear, as it usually does.

The Democratic State Executive Committee has rescinded the rule requiring voters to state that they had voted for a Democratic candidate for Congress in the regular election on the same day before they can vote in the primary.

The action followed the filing of a suit at Bowling Green attacking the validity of the call on the ground that the rule destroys the secret ballot system.

Congressman John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, the Democratic leader on the floor of the House in Congress, will fire the opening gun of the congressional campaign for the Democrats in the Fifth district.

He will speak at some central point in Louisville on Thursday night, October 25. The place at which Congressman Williams will speak will be determined at the meeting of the Democratic Campaign Committee. Mr. Williams has a weak voice and the committee will try to get a building in which the acoustics are good.

The esteemed Grayson Tribune, a republican of cerulean tint, argues that the splendid record which Mr. Kehoe made in Congress was due to the graciousness of the republican party, because the republicans had a large majority at each term which Mr. Kehoe served. Well, that's all right, isn't it? The republicans have even a larger majority in the present Congress, to which Mr. Bennett was elected by the skin of his teeth, but nobody has heard of any graciousness shown the blustering Joseph. Laughed at by democrats and ignored by his own party associates, wouldn't it be better to retire Josephus and send Mr. Kehoe back to Washington where even a republican majority is forced to recognize his ability?—Cynthiana Democrat.

For that Dandruff

There is one thing that will cure it—Ayer's Hair Vigor. It is a regular scalp-medicine. It quickly destroys the germs which cause this disease. The unhealthy scalp becomes healthy. The dandruff disappears, had to disappear. A healthy scalp means a great deal to you—healthy hair, no dandruff, no pimples, no eruptions.

Tell your neighbors to go to the polls and vote for Hon. J. N. Kehoe for Congress.

Kehoe was one of the few Congressmen of whom the entire district was proud. No constituent of his was ever ashamed to say that Kehoe was his Representative.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the President of the Confederacy, who had been ill for a week at the Hotel Majestic in New York died, at 10:25 o'clock Tuesday. Death was due to pneumonia, induced by a severe cold which Mrs. Davis contracted upon her return from the Adirondacks, where she spent the summer months.

A glance at the figures in the election last fall for mayor of New York City shows that Hearst's chances of being elected governor on the fusion ticket are very bright. Tammany's vote will this year be cast for the young editor, while last year it went largely to McClellan. Moreover, Hearst has a host of followers all over the state.

Before State Insurance Commissioner Prewitt, of Frankfort, Tuesday President Charles A. Peabody, of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, appeared and answered charges against his administration resulting from the recent dismissal of Col. Biscoe Hindman as agent for Kentucky. He defended the removal of the latter by stating that no agent could represent the company in getting new business and at the same time be hostile to its management. Col. Hindman and another deposed agent took the stand and gave the other side of the matter. Commissioner Prewitt will receive the stenographic report of the testimony, and stated that he would make a prompt announcement of his ruling in the matter.

Only about once in ten years is Congress in the humor to appropriate liberally for public buildings. The last session proved one of the notable occasions. All of the states fared well, and Kentucky came in for an especially generous share.

The Congress appropriated $500,000 or more for government buildings in this state, a splendid sum in view of the fact that the larger cities were not included in the list. Congressman Edwards secured a building for London. Congressman Trimble provided for Paris, and Senator Lackburn for Versailles, in the same district. Congressman Gilbert landed a building for Lawrenceburg, and Congressmen James, Smith, Stanley and Hopkins did equally as well. There are but two representatives from Kentucky who are members of the republican party, which controlled the appropriations. Congressman Edwards landed all right, but Congressman Bennett—what of him? The sum total of his efforts is represented by a miserable little $7,000 appropriation for a site at Catlettsburg; and, it is alleged, he betrayed Ashland in even that small deal! What do the republicans think of that? Seven thousand out of five hundred thousand—and a member of the dominant party with only one other member from Kentucky to share with him the honors.—Cynthiana Democrat.

The beauties of a high protective tariff are humorously shown in the following extract from the Concordia Empire, a Republican paper published in Concordia, Mo.:

We have been invited to send a dollar contribution to the Republican campaign fund that is being raised by popular subscription and to which President Roosevelt recently subscribed. We would like to have our dollar in such select company all right, but we've done all the contributing we intend to do this year. We have recently completed building a house at a cost of something over $4,000, and for every foot of lumber, every pane of glass, every sack of cement every pound of nails, and in fact nearly every bit of material that went into it, we made a good, liberal contribution through the trusts that control them, and we guess we have done our share. It may be treason for a Republican newspaper to talk this way, but facts are facts, and it sort of relieves our conscience to tell the truth about the trusts once in a while. We'll just let the several trusts to which we have had to pay unwilling tribute in the past year pay our dollar for us. We need it and they don't.—Concordia, Mo., Empire.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the firm of Ball and Moore, doing a general merchandise business at Matie, Ky., is hereby mutually dissolved. John M. Moore assumes the indebtedness of the firm and will collect the debts due said firm.

Witness our hands this 10th day of October, 1906. John M. Moore.
G. V. Ball, Jr.

Senator J. W. Newman, candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, seems to have the lead in the race before the Democratic primary election. He is a man of ability, honor, and experience as an official. Also, he is a practical farmer. He is the author of the law giving each county a free annual Farmers Institute, the pure stock food law, etc.

The fact that John Sharp Williams, the Democratic leader in the House will open the campaign of Swager Sherley, who ranks as easily the ablest of the younger Democratic Congressmen, and, in spite of his youth, as one of the half score Congressmen who can always command a hearing, is evidence of the fact that the Democratic Congressional Committee is preparing not only for victory, but to make wise use of it.

With a Democratic majority in the next House John Sharp Williams will, unquestionably, be the Speaker, and Mr. Sherley, if re-elected, is assured of one of the most important chairmanships of that branch of Congress. Despite the handicap under which he has worked as a member of an overwhelmed minority, Mr. Sherley has succeeded in accomplishing much for his district and State and has given unmistakable evidence of a capacity for statecraft that Kentucky cannot afford to refuse recognition.

The strength in Congress of a State like Illinois is due to the fact that when its voters and Legislature have discovered a good man they see to it that his place is kept secure for him session after session, so long as he rewards the confidence placed in him. It was when Kentucky followed this rule that Kentuckians deservedly held places of commanding influence both in the Senate and in the House.—Louisville Times.

Let the people of the Ninth district emulate the example of the people of Illinois and put Mr. Kehoe back into Congress and keep him there.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, the supreme ruler of the universe, to call from our midst our beloved brother, D. W. Munsey, on Oct. 7, 1906—He professed faith in Christ in early life—therefore be it Resolved that by his death Louisa Lodge No. 270, I. O. O. F. has lost a faithful brother, true to the principles of Odd Fellowship; his wife a loving husband and his children a kind father and the community a good and true citizen.

The family have our heartfelt sympathies in their sad bereavement.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the departed brother and a copy spread on our minutes

$1.00 Does the Work of $1.25.

Just received the finest stock of general merchandise ever brought to Louisa. We call special attention to our ladies wraps, skirts, underwear and millinery. Also shoes, hats and clothing for men, women and children.

Remember, we have quit the credit business from this day on. We will quote prices so low that if the man who sells on time gets to see them he will fall dead. Poor man, it may be that he can collect his bad accounts in the other world. Ar-buckle coffee 16 cents, Golden Rio 16 cts, Gold Dust 4 cts, box, Lenox soap 3 cts, Big Deal 4 cts, Utility 2 cts, Alpha flour $4.50 bbl, 30 and 60 cts pr. bag, Smoked bacon 9 cts, pr. lb., Syrup 9 cts, per qt. Fine old Sorghum 25 cts, gal.

We cut the price on all 5 and 10 ct. goods to 4 and 9 cts. Get the other fellow's price and we will undersell. When you buy goods on time he charges you 25 cts more on every dollar for the time, and to make up for what he loses on the fellow that didn't pay his account. So bring your money to me and make $1.00 do the work of $1.25.

BARGAIN LEADERS

THE FARM.

TO CURE HOOF WOUNDS.

A strict antiseptic treatment of wounds in horses' hoofs caused by nail pricks and other similar injuries has been found the most beneficial of any yet tried by the South Dakota experiment station. The method consists of paring away the horn of the hoof from the affected part until the blood oozes out. Then the hoof should be thoroughly washed out with a solution of bichloride of mercury at the rate of one part to 500 of water. After this is done, absorbent cotton saturated with the same solution should be applied to the wound and the whole hoof packed in cotton and surrounded by a bandage, which can be kept in place by a coat of tar. In this way filth is prevented from coming in contact with the wound. The original operation should be performed by a veterinarian, but the subsequent treatment can be supplied by the average farmer. All that is necessary after the first dressing is to pour a little of the solution of bichloride of mercury on the cotton that projects from the upper part of the bandage. The cotton will absorb enough of the fluid to keep the wound moistened and hasten the healing process. If such a remedy is not adopted soon after the horse is wounded, the owner runs a serious risk of losing the animal, either through blood poisoning or lockjaw.

Maintaining Fertility of the Soil.

Let us suppose that the readers lives in the corn belt of southern Illinois or Missouri, where both corn and small grain can be grown. We will suppose that he owns 160 acres of land, and wishes to practice a complete rotation that will maintain the fertility of his soil. How should he build a rotation that will do this?

In the first place, we would divide the land into four fields as nearly equal as possible. One field we would have in clover meadow, another in pasture, another in corn, and the fourth in small grain. Next year I would plow up the pasture for corn, turn the cattle onto the old meadow for pasture, sow the corn stalks to small grain and clover, and what was in small grain this year would be for meadow next year. If the soil is very poor I would make this change every year. If not, two crops of corn can be grown in succession and then one of small grain and another of corn before the change is made. By such a rotation the farmer may expect to raise 100 head of hogs; the farmer in the locality named should have at least five acres in fruit; in the pasture he should be able to maintain at least twenty head of cattle, preferably milk cows. In addition to this he should keep six head of mares with which to do the farm work.

From such a farm stocked as suggested the farmer may expect returns as follows: From fruit, $1,000, hogs, $1,500; milk, butter and calves, $1,000; colts, $300; truck, grain and farm products not needed to feed farm stock, $500; total, $4,300. The farmer could not expect more than this if the entire farm was in any one crop, so that it is just as profitable to follow this rotation as it would be to keep the ground in nothing but corn, oats or wheat all the time.

Let us see if mixed farming as above suggested will maintain the fertility of the soil. In the first place, we will suppose that the corn will average fifty bushels per acre and that both the grain and the fodder are removed from the ground and the fodder fed on the pasture or in the lots. This means a removing of something like eighty pounds of nitrogen, thirty pounds of phosphorus, and seventy pounds of potash. The average yield of small grain of the section would mean a removal of thirty pounds of nitrogen, fifteen pounds of phosphorus and thirty pounds of potash. This makes a total of 4,400 pounds of nitrogen, 1,800 pounds of phosphorus and 4,000 pounds of potash each year from the forty acres of corn and forty acres of wheat.

To offset this loss, the horses, aside from what is lost on the highways, will produce per year no less than six tons of manure each. This totals thirty-six tons for the six horses. The United States Department of Agriculture, in one of its recent bulletins, shows that manure has been found by many analyses to contain 0.5 per cent nitrogen, 0.26 per cent phosphorus and 0.5 per cent of potash. Six horses, then, would void 400 pounds of nitrogen, 200 pounds of phosphorus and 400 pounds of potash in a year if the manure is properly preserved and applied. The department has also found that observations show that the average milk cow will void twelve tons of manure in a year, and analyses show that the manure will contain 0.43 per cent nitrogen, 0.29 per cent phosphorus and 0.44 per cent potash. Twenty cows will void in a year 2,000 pounds of nitrogen, 1,400 pounds of phosphorus and 2,100 pounds of potash. Each hog will void one and a half tons of manure in a year, and this has been found to contain 0.85 per cent nitrogen, 0.4 per cent phosphorus and 0.3 per cent potash. The manure produced by 100 head of hogs will, therefore, contain 2,550 pounds of nitrogen, 1,200 pounds of phosphorus and 900 pounds of potash. This makes a total of 4,950 pounds of nitrogen, 2,800 pounds of phosphorus and 3,400 pounds of potash returned to the farm by the animals kept on the farm. In addition to this clover will return fertility because it is a legume and has power to gather nitrogen from the air, and is a deep-rooted crop and will bring up phosphorus and potash from the subsoil.

Just how much nitrogen it will gather from the air is a matter that can never be correctly determined. However, the Minnesota station has found that where a rotation of wheat, clover, wheat and oats is grown the plot will show an annual gain of 61 pounds of nitrogen per acre. In other words, the clover will return to the soil 244 pounds more nitrogen per acre in one year than can be removed by the two crops of wheat, one crop of oats and one crop of clover hay. This conclusion would lead us to believe that a crop of clover will return to each acre about 400 pounds of nitrogen, more than is needed to produce the crop and is lost by rapid decay of humus and in the drainage waters. But to be on the safe side of the matter let us estimate only fifty pounds per acre, or 2,000 pounds for the forty acres.

The clover, being a deep-rooted crop, will gather considerable phosphorus and potash from the subsoil. Some of this will be used in maturing and making the hay, and some of it will be left in the roots and stubs. Some estimate that the amount thus brought up will exceed 100 pounds of phosphorus per acre and 200 pounds of potash. This estimate we think is exceedingly large, but we do think that nearly if not quite as much of these elements are brought from the subsoil as is needed to make the crop of clover hay. Taking this as truth and figuring the nitrogen returned at only fifty pounds per acre, we have the total return to the farm from the manure and clover of 6,500 pounds of nitrogen, 2,500 pounds of phosphorus and 3,400 pounds of potash. By again considering the amount removed by the crops, it can be seen that we have a gain of over 2,500 pounds of nitrogen, which is ample for loss that may be expected from the rapid decay of humus and in the drainage waters, while the phosphorus and potash are practically the same, thus showing that it is possible to maintain the fertility of the soil in this simple manner.

By rotating the pasture as well as the crops the stock are changed from one part of the farm to another, and they apply a great deal of their manure themselves while they are in the pasture. Thus the question of the application of manure is materially reduced and the land receives the manure while it is fresh and before it has lost any of its fertility.

The whole question of how to maintain the fertility of the farm land resolves itself into the one thought: Maintain the supply of humus in the soil, and the supply of plant food will also be maintained. The supply of humus can best be maintained by the growth of clover in rotation with other crops and the keeping of enough stock on the farm to consume all the forage and hay produced and a considerable of the grain. If this is done the fertility of the farm will be maintained. Analyses, as I have shown above, prove that this is true. The experience of practical farmers also proves that it is true. When the common farm crops or the prevailing crops of the section are grown, the fertility of the soil can be maintained in the very way I have suggested. Of course, if exhaustive crops, like some of the garden crops, are grown, then the grower will have to resort to the use of commercial fertilizers. But where the common farm crops are grown, nature has provided a way to maintain the fertility of the soil by simple methods and with materials produced on the farm.

Mountaineer Hospitality.

"HELLO!"

You enter no mountaineer's yard without that announcing cry. It was mediaeval, the Blight said, positively — two lorn damsels, a benighted knight partially stripped of his armor by bush and sharpened-edged rock, a gray palfrey and she wished I had a horn to wind. I wanted to "horn" badly enough — but it was not the kind men wind. By and by we got a response.

"Hello!" was the answer, as an opened door let out into the yard a broad band of light. Could we stay all night? The voice replied that the owner would see "Pap," "Pap" seemed willing, and the boy opened the gate and into the house went the Blight and the little sister. Shortly, I followed.

There, all in one room, lighted by a huge wood fire, rafters above, puncheon floor beneath — cane-bottomed chairs and two beds the only furniture — "pap," barefooted, the old mother in the chimney corner with a pipe, strings of red pepper pods, beans and herbs hanging around and above, a married daughter with a child at her breast, two or three children with yellow hair and bare feet — all looking with all their eyes at the two visitors who had dropped upon them from another world. The Blight's eyes were brighter than usual — that was the only sign she gave that she was not in her own drawing-room. Apparently she saw nothing strange or unusual even, but there was really nothing that she did not see or hear and absorb, as few others than the Blight can.

Straightway, the old woman knocked the ashes out of her pipe.

"I reckon you hain't had nothin' to eat," she said and disappeared. The old man asked questions, the young mother rocked her baby on her knees the children got less shy and drew near the fireplace, the Blight and the little sister exchanged a furtive smile and the contrast the extremes in American civilization, as shown in that little cabin, interested me mightily.

"Yer snack's ready," said the old woman. The old man carried the chair into the kitchen, and when I followed the girls were seated. The chairs were so low that their chins came barely over their plates and demure and serious as they were they surely looked most comical. There was the usual bacon and corn-bread and potatoes and sour milk, and the two girls struggled with the rude fare nobly.

Moonshining in New York.

"Don't talk to me about moonshining in Kentucky," said the Internal Revenue Agent. "There is more moonshining going on all the time in little old New York than could be done in ten Kentuckys. In the crowded sections of the East and West sides, stills spring up right along and for a while conduct a flourishing business in the low-grade whisky they manufacture. You see, it doesn't take much trouble to equip a still with corn and yeast, and start in to make the mash which is finally turned out as a pretty poor sort of whisky. The great difficulty is in getting rid of the peculiar smoke and odor from the stills without exciting suspicion. This is usually attempted by running the still in connection with a dye shop or some other chemical enterprise as a 'blind.' We keep watch on all such establishments and have the town well-covered by sharp-eyed and sharp-nosed agents. We are constantly arresting these small moonshiners and sending them to jail. But enough spring up in their places for you to say with safety that, as I say, there's more moonshining going on in New York City right along than there could be in ten Kentuckys."

Capt. Jackson Wants all MountainPeople to Become Socialists.

Will Start on Tramping Trip in Spring Trying to Convert Eastern Kentucky to His Doctrines.

The conversion of all the mountain - country people of Kentucky to doctrines and the practices of Socialism is the task to which Capt. George M. Jackson, formerly of Winchester, Ky., but now of St. Louis, has dedicated the remainder of his life. Capt. Jackson himself became a follower of the principles of Socialism in 1902 and, as was the case with the first converts to Christianity, he feels called upon to devote his life to the advancement of the cause. He is sixty-six years old, and in the spring will re-enter the campaign he began some weeks ago.

His campaign will be prosecuted by him on foot, and he plans to traverse the entire eastern part of the State, speaking personally to every man who will hear him, until he shall have become too old and infirm to do active work for the cause he represents. Last year he started the first of his series of expeditions. He accompanied R. R. Perry, editor of the Winchester Sun-Sentinel, to Natural Bridge, on an excursion annually given by Mr. Perry, and from there set out on foot through the hills and valleys of the eastern counties. On that trip he visited the counties of Irvine, Estill, Powell, and Lee. It is his plan to lecture in all the school houses which he comes upon. In his walks through the mountain roads he calls at every home and, button-holing the man of the house, inculcates into him some of the cardinal principles of Socialism.

"In my campaign of last year I converted many," said Capt. Jackson, at Winchester a few days ago, "and I have sowed seed that will bear fruit in abundance. I found that what I teach is largely new to those whom the adoption of Socialism would help most. They grasp the proposition quickly and each convert is good for more. I show plainly that the Socialist is not an anarchist, but that the anarchist is the rich man who betrays the best interests of his neighbors for pelf."

Capt. Jackson is a Kentuckian. He left the State thirty - three years ago, since when he has resided in St. Louis. He came to Louisville for the Home Coming, and from there went on to Winchester, where he participated in the Home Coming of Clark county.

His father owned and operated the famous Red River Iron Works, where Clay City now stands, in the years before the war. The Estill furnaces also were the property of his father. It was at the Red River furnaces where George M. Jackson son, then twenty years of age, organized the first Federal company of infantry and was made its Captain. The organization was affected on August 6, 1861, and two days later the Company reached Camp Dick Robinson. It was attached to the Fourth Kentucky Infantry during the war. During the campaign of 1860 Capt. Jackson edited and published a Bell and Everett paper at Winchester.

His purpose for the evangelization of the eastern part of the State is to start his campaign as soon as spring arrives. He plans to walk through the mountains from Winchester to the Jamestown Exposition along the Wildcamp Road over which his paternal and maternal great - grandfathers, in 1729, came to settle in what is now Clark county. His great - grand - father Jackson settled at Jackson's Ferry on the Kentucky river at the time when the products of that part of the country were shipped to market at New Orleans by flatboat. Jackson's Ferry became an important commercial point.

Capt. Jackson is not unprepared for the taking up of the doctrines of Socialism by his earlier political ventures. In Missouri he worked for the nomination and the election of Peter Cooper on the Middle - of - the - road Populist ticket. He labored for that party's interests until he became identified with Socialism in 1902. He was secretary of the State Committee of that organization in Missouri, and twice ran for Congress on the Greenback ticket.

Although Capt. Jackson is an ardent and a conscientious Socialist, he is a wealthy man and is the owner of much valuable real estate in Eastern Kentucky. He was reared in Winchester. His politics does not affect the degree of his popularity with those of all parties and he has only to tell his name and lineage to anyone to the east of the Bluegrass to be given a careful hearing. On many of his trips he meets cousins that are many times removed, but who trace their parentage back to the same great - grand - father, who came into Kentucky along the Wildcamp road soon after Boone had discovered the advantages of the State.

Life in Kentucky.

An aged woman who had lived most of her life in Kentucky was near death and requested that she be taken back to Chicago. She had lived on the shores of Lake Michigan when Chicago was a frontier village. The Chicago Inter - Ocean is moved by this occurrence to speculate for the space of half a column upon the homing instinct that often manifests itself in men and women years after all of those whom they knew and loved "at home" have died or gone away.

But is there aught to marvel at in the circumstance of anyone, who must soon die wishing that dissolution should occur in Chicago? Kentucky is a land where life holds out all of its brightest allurements. It was a Kentucky negress who sang:

"Ain't gwine ter die in springtime,
Ain't gwine ter die in de fall;
Since I cum ter think 'bout it,
I ain't gwine ter die at all."

In Chicago, life has a harsher aspect, and there is less of a wrenching sensation incident to leaving this world, if one leaves it from the Windy City. Heaven—if Heaven be the destination of the spirit—holds more charms when compared to Chicago. If the other alternative is faced there is always the consolation that in the future one may say, "this, at any rate, is not Chicago."

The state of perfect preparedness for death has never been reached in Kentucky. Many virtuous and pious persons have been prepared to enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but none has been prepared to leave Kentucky. A solution to the problem of leaving this world for a better one with as little regret as possible has been found. Leave via Chicago.

Circuit Judge Redwine has made an order dividing the coming term of the Carter circuit court between Grayson and Olive Hill, twelve days at the former and ten days at the latter. The court convenes at Grayson the 4th Monday of October and at Olive Hill on November 7th. The order further requires the circuit clerk to open an office at Olive Hill for the filling of papers etc., and the Sheriff and Jailor to be present at the sitting of the terms. The act creating the court does not say that the Clerk shall open an office or appoint a deputy nor does it say that the Jailor "shall furnish fuel, lights, etc." as does Judge Redwine's order, but does say that all the expenses of the court shall be borne by the town asking for the division. But this is a matter that will be properly adjusted by all parties concerned. A fine court room has been provided for the new court, also a new vault for the records and cells for the prisoners.

Thursday night Harve Coleman's saloon at Devon was the scene of a cowardly and treacherous shooting which may cost the life of "Bill" Rutherford, of Williamson.

Rutherford is a special officer and Thursday went to Devon, and up Knox creek, to execute summons on some witnesses who were wanted before the Mingo circuit court. In the evening he returned to Devon to await the coming of No. 3, on which he could return to Williamson.

About 11 o'clock at night quite a crowd had congregated at Harve Coleman's saloon, Rutherford among them, all awaiting the arrival of the train.

Suddenly the whip-like crack of a rifle was heard and Bill Rutherford was seen to stagger and run out into the darkness of the night. He returned immediately saying he was shot, and examination disclosed a ragged wound just above the heart where the treacherous bullet had entered. Dr. Richardson, of Devon, was hastily summoned to attend the wounded man who was bleeding profusely. He extracted the bullet, which had lodged just under the skin on the man's back.

Rutherford was carried to the train and accompanied to his home by friends. He is in a critical condition and suffers much.

No clue to the perpetrator of the deed was found, although careful search was made by several of the people present.

Evangelist Sam Jones Dead.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 15. — Rev. Sam P. Jones, the well-known evangelist, of Cartersville, Ga., died early to-day of heart failure in a sleeping car on train No. 4, of the Rock Island railroad near Perry, Ark. Mr. Jones had been conducting a most successful revival at Oklahoma City, I. T., and left there last night for his home in Georgia. He desired to attend a family reunion to-morrow, it being the fifty-ninth anniversary of his birth. Mrs. Jones and his daughters, Mrs. Annie Pymon and Miss Julia Jones, were with him when he passed away.

Mr. Jones arose from his berth in the sleeper about 5 o'clock this morning and complained of sickness in his stomach. He drank a glass of hot water and immediately afterward collapsed. The Rev. Walter Holcomb, who has been associated with Mr. Jones for a number of years, took the dying man in his arms, and in a few minutes the evangelist breathed his last.

The body has been embalmed and will be shipped to Cartersville this afternoon, where interment will be had. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. George Stuart, the Rev. J. A. Brown, of Mississippi, and the Rev. Holcomb.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION WILL MAKE NO CHANGE.

No matter which candidate is elected, Foley's Honey and Tar will remain the people's favorite remedy for coughs, colds and incipient consumption. It cures colds quickly and prevents pneumonia. A. J. Nussbaum, Batesville, Ind. writes "I suffered for three months with a severe cold. A druggist prepared me some medicine, and a physician prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I then tried Foley's Honey and Tar and eight doses cured me." For sale by Louisa Drug Co.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

The infants of E. H. Phipps and John Waugh are on the sick list. — Grayson item.

A serious accident occurred Friday evening, about 8 o'clock, in the lower end of Ashland, that will probably result in the death of Enoch Hall.

He and a friend by the name of Caudill were trading revolvers, and while examining them, the weapon in Caudill's hands, a 32 - calibre Ivers - Johnson, was accidentally discharged, the ball striking Hall just over the left nipple, and penetrating the lung.

Millard Ward, aged 37 years, and Mrs. Susan Sloan, aged 60 years, she admitted 60, but looked 80, were married by Squire John M. Corns, at his office on Center st. Friday, says the Ironton Irononian.

The old woman explained that she had a bottom farm of 105 acres in Boyd county, and that she married this man in order to have some one to look after the farm.

On Monday of last week one of the largest coal mining corporations ever organized in the State of West Virginia, was effected at the city of Williamson. The name of the new corporation, whose capital stock is $3,500,000, is the The Mingo Block Coal Company. Among the incorporators are the Lawsons, of Boston; Harry Lawson, of the 1st National Bank of Williamson; Isham Keith, the millionaire coal operator of Clarksburg; S. R. Griffin, the oil expert, of the same place; and Bankers Geo. M. Whitescarver, of Grafton, and Chas. E. Dobbins, of Wheeling.

The parent company and its lessees will immediately begin the installation of the 5 operations, covering the 7,000 acres in the company's holdings, in the lower end of Mingo county, and they expect to ship coal by the fall of 1907. The General Superintendent and Chief Engineer of the present company, Mr. Henry M. Payne, will assume all control of the company's operations on December 1st, at which time he will go out of the general engineering business, which he has so successfully maintained since its establishment 5 years ago. In the meantime he will complete his outstanding contracts, so as to give his undivided attention to the new company, with whom he is under contract for a term of years.

Charley Blankenship, son of W. R. Blankenship, after one year's absence, returned to his home, near Hubbardstown, September 1st and shot himself September 3rd. He Bartram, and John A. Trip. Chal- and another young man were hunting in the woods together when the sad accident occurred. The other young man ran about a mile and Lester, and Jack Caniff, Chaileng- gave the alarm and in a short time a number of people were on the scene.

The deceased was only 19 years of age. He was shot in the left arm near the shoulder and was in the hands of good physicians and kind nurses. He was getting along nicely up to the ninth day when a change for the worse took place and he died September 15th. Before he died he called his father and Harvey Hatten.

to his bedside and said: "Pa, I am dying; good-bye; meet me in Heaven." Charley, whom we all loved so well has crossed the river to his reward, God gathers the richest flowers and plants them where they will bloom forever.

The body of the deceased was buried in the Laken Cemetery, by the side of his mother, who died two years ago. A large crowd attended the funeral.

Greenup, Ky., Oct. 14— Morris, the four - year - old son of Sellards Tumbleson, was burned to death, yesterday morning by catching fire at an open grate, while the mother was out in the barnyard milking a cow. A sad feature was that the burning was in the presence of Miles Tumbleson, the aged grandfather of the child, who was in the bed, a helpless invalid. The shock was so severe that he has never spoken since, and his life is despaired of.

By an accident which occurred at the Ashland Coal and Iron Railway Company's shops Monday morning, W. H. Apple, Master Mechanic had four ribs and his left arm broken, and Thomas J. Ryan, Master Car Builder, was painfully bruised. The accident was caused by an engine running into a turn-table.

Death is rapidly thinning the ranks of Catlettsburg's elderly citizens, as another was called to his reward at an early hour this morning. Between 1:30 and 5 o'clock Richard Brown peacefully passed away at the residence of his nieces, Misses Sallie and Lucy Brown. The illness preceding his death was of three weeks' duration, and came from a severe stroke of paralysis. For a year he had been feeble, but remained able to go about as usual and kept up his usual cheerful manner. He was 76 years of age.

J C Fannin, a section man on the C. and O. at Russell, met with serious injury Monday evening, by having his arm broken while working about the turn - table. A lever knocked him down and the turn-table caught the unfortunate man and rolled him over, breaking his right arm in four places, besides, injuring him internally. He was placed in a caboose and taken to C. and O. Hospital at Huntington. Examination at the hospital showed that he had sustained some very bad fractures of the arm, and which finally necessitated amputation.

The election commissioners for Butler township, Wayne county, precinct No. 1, are Eugene Romans, John P. Billups, and Charles Hammond. Challengers — S. W. Frazier and Mont Bartram. Precinct No. 2: Commissioners, James Frazier, Lewis shot himself September 3rd. Chal- and another young man were hunting in the woods together when the sad accident occurred. The other young man ran about a mile and Lester, and Jack Caniff, Chaileng- gave the alarm and in a short time a number of people were on the scene.

Greenup, Ky., Oct. 15. — The case of Thomas McNeal, indicted for murder in the first degree, comes up tomorrow. This will be the first murder trial in this county for several years, and it will likely take up several days. Thomas McNeal, the alleged murderer, is only twenty years old, and his wife, the alleged victim, was only eighteen. He will be defended by the Hon. Theo. K. Funk, of Portsmouth, O., and the Hon. Thomas D. Theobald, of Grayson. The prosecution will be conducted by Attorney W. T. Cole and County Attorney Elmer E. Fuleton. The young man has never fully recovered from self - inflicted wounds, and is still quite weak. The principal line of defense is to be insanity.

Wesley Cox Adkins was sentenced to sixteen years in the pen by the Elliott Circuit Court for murder.

Greenup, Ky., Oct. 16. — A little daughter of Daniel Hensley, of Macedonia, was badly injured at play near a saw mill by a log rolling over her. Three physicians, Drs. A. S. Brady, H. T. Morris and E. E. Raikes were called, but gangrene set in, and it became necessary to amputate the leg below the knee.

On Tuesday near Panther, Halsey Bailey shot and killed Jim Chambers, brother of the late Judge Chambers, who was known to several people in Williamson.

It will be remembered that about three years ago Jim Chambers shot and killed a brother of Bailey's. There are several reports of the shooting which resulted in the death of Chambers. One report has it that Chambers was fired upon while standing on the railroad track talking to a man by the name of Dixon, and that the shot came from Bailey's house, which was near.

Another report is that Bailey and Chambers had been in recent trouble over some matters relating to the saloon business and that Chambers had attempted to kill Bailey, but failed. It is reported that he went to the home of Bailey on the morning of the shooting for the purpose of killing him, but that Bailey saw him coming and stepping to the door of his home fired four shots from a Winchester, each one taking effect and killing him instantly.

Mrs. Ann Cyrus, one of Lawrence county's pioneer residents, whose home was up at Burgess Station, died yesterday at 11 a. m., after a long illness of heart trouble. Mrs. Cyrus was the widow of Samuel Cyrus, and is survived by three children, Mrs. J. M. Pritchard and P. P. Cyrus, of Ashland, and Jesse Cyrus, who lives at the home place. Dr. Pritchard, Mr. Cyrus and Rev. J. W. Hampton left this morning for Burgess, where Mr. Hampton will conduct the funeral service this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Cyrus was well known to many of our people, who will hear of her death with sincere regret. She was a noble, Christian woman, who, in passing to her reward, has left a monument of good deeds that will be everlasting.

M. Sterling, Ky., October 16. — A. M. Pasley, bricklayer of Union Hall, Powell County, brought to Clay City a sample of gold ore taken from his farm. The yellow metal was visible in the ore to a considerable extent. He has had it assayed and it proves to be worth $9 per ton. Further investigation will be made in hopes that larger amounts of the ore may be found.

W. P. Wise, also of Union Hall, owns 200 acres of land at the state rock in Powell County and has found strong traces of gold on his land. He has been digging for the precious metal and is very much encouraged with the outlook. There are many people who believe gold is surely to be found in the Eastern Kentucky mountains, and much development is looked for in that section.

Quite a Curiosity.

Corporal Nixon has a great curiosity in the form of a horned lizard, alive and kicking. It came from Monterey, California, Wednesday, and seems in no wise the worse for its long journey. It's a harmless reptile, but it wouldn't take first prize at a beauty show.
